Information We Collect and Its Uses

When we need to collect personally identifiable information to execute the requested transaction or provide a particular service, we will ask you to voluntarily supply us with any additional information we need. If you elect to make an online payment, you will be asked to supply information that is necessary to process your payment. We typically use your email address to send a confirmation and, if necessary, might use the other information to contact you for help in processing.

We reserve the right to use information collected for market analysis and our direct marketing purposes. In addition, when you provide contact details for transaction requests, such as scheduling an appointment or requesting a proposal, we will use the contact information to keep you updated about our future offers or promotions.

Freedom Financial Solutions, LLC may also collect information through the use of commonly-used information-gathering tools, such as cookies and Web Beacons. This includes standard information from your Web browser (such as browser type and browser language), your Internet Protocol ("IP") address, and the actions you take on the Company's Web site (such as the Web pages viewed and the links clicked).

Creating an Account Profile

Users of our products and programs may, at their choice, create a personal account profile online within our password-protected sites. Creating an account profile makes it more convenient for you by eliminating the need to repeatedly enter personal contact or preference information. The security of this information is addressed in the security section below. You can access and review, update or deactivate the information in your account profile online.

We treat the information you provide to us as confidential; it is, accordingly, subject to our company's security procedures and corporate policies regarding protection and use of confidential information. Please note that we will never send you email requesting your user name, password, credit card, social security or national insurance numbers. If you receive an email that looks like it's from one of our companies, but asks you for your credit card number, social security or national insurance number, it is a fraudulent email or "phish."

If you believe "phishers" have obtained access to your personal or financial information, we recommend that you do the following:

- Change your password.
- Contact credit reporting services and have a fraud alert attached to your credit report file. Please be aware that the perpetrator may attempt to use your information to establish accounts or obtain credit at other businesses in their name.

Disclosure of Information to Third Parties

We do not sell or transfer personal information to other companies for their own use without your approval and without giving you the opportunity to opt-out. Personally identifiable information may be sent to non-affiliated companies when we have your consent to share the information, need to share your information to provide the product or service you have requested or need to send the information to companies who work on our behalf (e.g., mail houses and technology service providers) to provide a product or service to you, for general recordkeeping, informational and/or analysis reports and to supplement your information. These companies do not have any right to use the information we provide to them for any purpose beyond what is necessary to assist us.
